Aloha

Several years ago, I moved from Honolulu to Vancouver, WA. I found myself craving for the “Local Hawaiian Food“. Every chance I have, I return home and the first thing I do is eat at my favorite restaurants. The cultural mix in Hawaii is amazing. The Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Koreans and the Portuguese have all made valuable contributions to Hawaii’s multicultural society. And because we have this Asian and Polynesian blend, Hawaii has become a “Gathering Place” for chefs to practice their craft. The festive culinary possibilities are endless. But nobody can argue home cooked meals are the best. Most people will agree that their favorite foods are the ones that mom and dad would cook for us at home. They bring back happy memories when we eat them. I would like to not only share my “Home Cooked” meals, but more important, the “Spirit of Aloha” with you, your family, your friends and the world.
